

Mimi on a Mission: Lockdown Party, Peggy Pictures, United Kingdom

“Following on from a debut BBC series which saw her take a group of teens to Holland to explore sex education, Mimi Missfit is back - and once again she wants to get young people talking. Mimi sends out her positive vibes in this fun and laughter-filled weekly antidote to the frustration, fear and boredom of the corona crisis. From the safety of her front room, she brings together a select list of very special guests, starting off with the one and only 100-year-old Captain Tom who has raised millions for charity. Each week, Mimi celebrates inspirational frontline heroes and offers top tips for staying positive in these challenging times. The series also features clips of young people from across the country sharing their lockdown experiences – from missing their mates, hairdressers and fast food to loving not going to school, learning amazing new skills and helping out in the community. Mimi wants you to come and join her lockdown party!”
