What's around?

Eating and drinking around the festival site

All along Dachauerstraße and Augustenstraße, between Marsstraße and Stiglmaierplatz you will find a bunch of small restaurants or takeaways varying from Turkish to Chinese or Italian. Here are just some of them to give you inspiration:

1

Neue Hopfenpost (Shopping Centre Hopfenstraße), 2 minutes walk

Just across the BR-entrance this shopping centre offers next to supermarkets some nice lunch spots: an organic store with fresh and healthy food, a small Asian restaurant with tables inside, a bakery shop where you always get some sandwiches or the popular “Leberkäs-Semmel” (bread roll with type of meat loaf typical for Bavaria).

Also, there is a Rewe Supermarket where you can buy freshly made pizza, fruits and several sorts of warm sandwiches.

If you're out of money, you will find a cash dispenser right at the entrance.

Rundfunkplatz 4

2Japan Sushi Gourmet, 7 minutes walk

You feel an urgent need for excellent sushi, maki or fresh nigiri? Then we can recommend this restaurant! It's small and it looks inconspicuous from the outside, but there you can find good Sushi for a really good price.

Karlstraße 56

+49 89 5999 8799

3*Hans im Glück, 10 minutes walk

Have you ever eaten a fresh, juicy burger sitting in a forest? No? Then you should absolutely try this place! The service is really nice and if you're not into meat, there are even veggie and vegan burgers. During Midday they have some Lunch specials. Oh yes, and the restaurant is not actually a forest, but... see for yourself.

Luisenstraße 14

+49 89 9993 7818

4Ristorante Vi Vadi, 6 minutes walk

Italian restaurant with the typical assortment of Pizza, Pasta and Prosecco. Very close to the festival site. Standard menu and price.

Marsstraße 6

+49 89 5450 6767

5ZOB - Bus Terminal Building (5), 7 minutes walk

In and around the new bus terminal building there are a bunch of restaurants and snack options.

Arnulfstraße 21

6Munich Central Station, 10 minutes walk

In the “basement” underneath the Central Station there are lots of small fast food restaurants. You will find several possibilities to still your hunger for little money. If you need cash, there are several ATMs inside the train station.

Bayerstraße 10

7Busner.s Restaurant, 10 minutes walk

A trendy new restaurant offering special cuisine from around the globe, from Mediterranean to Asian. They serve several menus in big or small sizes, vegetarian or with meat. A must-try!

Nyphenburgerstraße 1

+49 89 557154

8Ruby Lilly Hotel & Bar, 7 minutes walk

The Ruby Lilly is just a stone's throw from the BR and Munich's lively city centre and a few minutes' walk from the historic Königsplatz and the adjacent major museums and galleries. At Ruby Lilly you can make yourself comfortable in an armchair or on the sofa and enjoy affordable snacks and cocktails. Lean Luxury!

Transports

Munich has got one of the biggest transportation systems in Germany. It is composed of an Underground, a Tramway, Buses and a Suburban Train Service (S-Bahn). The fare for a single ride is € 3,50, including changes. There are several other possibilities, though. If you plan on taking the public transit more often, buy a 10-rides-ticket for € 15,20,-.

To buy a ticket, look for the blue ticket machines in the underground stations or inside the tramway. Just use the touch screen to select your language and buy your ticket. Don't forget to obliterate your ticket with the small blue boxes before accessing the platforms.

To get to the festival site

If you stay in the city center, the best way to get to the festival site is to take the Tramway 16 or 17 to Romanplatz/Amalienburgstraße at Karlsplatz (Stachus) and to hop off at Hopfenstraße (see on the map) near the BR-Tower.

Alternatively, you can take the S-Bahn at Karlsplatz (Stachus), get off the train at Hackerbrücke and then it's a 5 minutes walk to the BR.

Note that the festival site is not far away from downtown and quickly accessible by foot (max. 20 minutes walk from Marienplatz, in the center, and 10 minutes from central station). Therefore we would advise you to walk.

To get to the airport

Munich Airport is located 40 km outside of the city.

Airport train “S-Bahn” from Airport to the city: Every 10 minutes.

Journey time to Hauptbahnhof (Central Railway Station, for all hotels): 40 minutes. You can take either S1 or S8 – both lines go through “Hauptbahnhof”. The S-Bahn departs in the basement underneath the train station. Follow the white “S” on green ground.

Bus from Airport (Terminal 2) to “Hauptbahnhof” (Central Railway Station, for all hotels): every 20 minutes. Journey time to “Hauptbahnhof”: approx. 45 minutes.
